

MEDICINAL.

Half and Half.

The dyspeptic may well be represented pictorially as being half masculine and half feminine, and combining the least desirable characteristics of either sex. He has all the stubbornness of the man with the peevish irritability of a sick woman. He's not pleasant company at home or abroad.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and associated organs of digestion and nutrition. It renews physical health which carries with it cheerfulness of temper, and makes life a pleasure instead of a penance.

The "Discovery" purifies the blood by eliminating the corrupt and poisonous accumulations from which disease is bred. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so increasing the supply of pure rich blood, which gives life to every organ of the body. It gives new life and new strength.

"Your Golden Medical Discovery" has performed a wonderful cure," writes Mr. H. H. House, of Charleston, Franklin Co., Ark. "I had the worst case of dyspepsia the doctors say, and they were all wrong. After trying seven doctors and everything I could hear of, with no benefit, I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now I am cured."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, with large pages in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ANOTHER ALARM.

A little after 5 o'clock yesterday morning the heavens in the vicinity of Fort de France were as black as coal and the atmosphere was stifling.

There was a great cloud in the sky in the direction of Mount Pelee, from which incessant flashes of lightning were discharged. Ashes and stones rained heavily. The people were wild with fear, anticipating the fate of the residents of St. Pierre. They deserted their houses and with frenzied cries rushed into the streets, making their way with all speed to the water front to get boats to take them anywhere into the open sea to escape the impending danger. Many of them carried household effects in their arms, while others ran about wringing their hands and crying. There were many vessels in the harbor, but they would not send boats ashore. Mr. Ayme, the consul to Guadeloupe, boarded the cruiser Cincinnati. A launch from this warship was at the dock waiting to take Americans aboard. The officer in charge of the boat refused to take a Porto Rican from San Juan in the party of Americans. The officer was told who this man was, but he said his being a Porto Rican made no difference. At 6 o'clock the ashes and stones were still falling.

The expedition which went to St. Pierre Monday to recover the remains of Mr. Prentiss, the American consul, and his family, and the British consul and his family was, it is believed, only saved from death by the fact that a strong south wind was blowing which carried the noxious vapors, smoke and ashes from Mount Pelee to the northward, away from the vessels conveying the expedition. The volcano broke out with renewed fury after a party from the American navy tug Potomac had landed to obtain the bodies of the Prentiss family, which were found in the ruins of the consulate. Ensign Miller of the cruiser Cincinnati, and Lieutenant McCormick, commanding the Potomac, were among those who landed. The latter remarked upon the threatening appearance of the volcano and between 11:30 and 12 o'clock Mount Pelee began to throw off steam, smoke and ashes, while lightning played in the murky clouds above it.

The laborers in the party rushed down the hill, leaving behind the body of Mr. Prentiss, which had been placed in a basket, but the American sailors bravely lifted the remains and carried them to the beach. Meanwhile the British cruiser Indefatigable, which had come from Fort de France, had run out five miles to sea. The Potomac kept blowing her whistle as a danger signal to hurry the landing party to the beach. The situation was momentarily becoming more dangerous and orders were given to leave the basket on the beach, while the party hurriedly took to their boats and made for the Potomac.

The American cruiser Cincinnati was in the roadstead, and her commander ordered the Potomac to cruise along the shore and look out for refugees, which was done. Dense masses of black smoke were towering for several miles above the volcano, while streams of lava were pouring into the sea, causing steam to rise in great volumes until the atmosphere looked as though a heavy fog was prevailing.

The outbreak lasted for some time, but gradually abated in violence. Then the Potomac returned and secured the remains of Mr. Prentiss, which were transferred to the Cincinnati and brought to Fort de France. It is not known whether the Indefatigable returned to St. Pierre to secure the remains of the British consul.

SCARCITY OF LABORERS.—Scarcity of laborers threatens to bring many improvements in Chicago to a standstill. Thousands of men are in demand, and a large increase in wages is offered, but workmen cannot be found. Employment agencies are skirmishing among the small cities within a radius of a hundred miles of Chicago trying to pick up a sufficient number of laborers to supply the urgent demand. Unless men can be found, it is declared that by July 1 much of the work in progress will come to a stop. Never in the history of Chicago, it is said, have there been so few unemployed, and so much work waiting to be done. A year ago at this time the employment offices were besieged by hundreds clamoring for work. Now the reverse is true and agents have orders for many times more than they can supply. In the suburbs, especially at Stickney and Evanston, many improvements are at a standstill. Much work has been abandoned entirely for this year. Contractors on railroad work, who have for years been securing their workmen in Chicago, have been forced to go to eastern and southern cities for their men. Many factories in Chicago are running short of workmen, and are continually asking for more men at wages of 15 to 25 cents a day above the price paid last year. The dearth of workmen extends to almost every kind of labor.

THREE MEN ASPHYXIATED.—Three men were asphyxiated by gas from a well near Verona, a village eleven miles north of Dwight, Ill., Saturday morning. All were dead when their bodies were found by searchers. The bodies were found in a field. It is thought that one of the brothers went to the well and descended for a drink, that his brother, alarmed by the long absence, went to his aid, and that the third brother, when neither appeared, descended the well to investigate. The bodies were left standing in the field, and one of the teams ran away. This attracted the attention of a neighbor, who went to the home of the Barrs to investigate. The well contained only a small amount of water. A ladder led to the surface of the water. The bodies were recovered by means of grappling hooks and poles. The elder Barr leaves a widow and a child.
